

General repositories

Below are some examples of commonly used general repositories.

1

Figshare is an online open access repository where researchers can preserve and share their research outputs, including figures, datasets, images, and videos.

2

Dryad Digital Repository is committed to making data available for research and educational reuse.

3

Harvard Dataverse is an online data repository where you can share, preserve, cite, explore, and analyze research data.

4

Open Science Framework is a free, open-source web application that connects and supports the research workflow, enabling scientists to increase the efficiency and effectiveness of their research.

5

Zenodo is a general-purpose open-access repository.

6

FRDR - The Federated Research Data Repository is a Canadian solution for archiving projects involving large amounts of data or big data

7

Nature - Recommended data repositories